PSPInt: Intellivision Emulator for PSP v1.0.4

Hi All,

Here is a new version of PSPInt the Intellivision Emulator for PSP.

What's new in version 1.0.4 :

- Second joystick support
- Add keys to the virtual keyboard
- Option to toggle between players

Auto racing works now on this emulator !

Save state feature is still missing, i've spent hours on it, but without any success (very unstable, it freeze your PSP one time over two ...).

How to use it ? Everything is in the README.txt file.

Sources are included, and this package is under the GNU public license, read COPYING.txt file for more information about it.

pspint-v1.0.4.zip

Enjoy,

Zx.

I want to be honest with you , its kinda "too old school"

No one really wants that I guess , perhaps you try something less old and more fun ?

just my 2 cents.

Thanks for your comment . I agree, it's a very old-school emulator, but this is the first game console i've got when i was a child, and it reminds me many good things.

BTW, this emulator is finished, and i don't really understand why you take the time to write me that this emulator is not your "cup of tea". If i had to write to each authors of software that are not usefull for me, it would be a full-time job, i won't have enough time in my life to do it !

Take care, Zx.

Well, I don't often take the time and say thanks, but I will this time.

Is this as useful as the SNES emulators--probably not, but this has been one of my favorite emulators to poke around with by far. The Intellivision was my first console, too, and I must admit I don't know why my parents spend so much to get it for me (my Apple IIe much later at least had some educational justification...). Just spoiled, I guess.

Either way, I love that I can load my favorite baseball game of all time (although actually playing it without the keypad is...daunting). Astrosmash on the go is good, too.

Thanks!
