PSPVBA: GameBoy Advance Emulator for PSP v1.0.7 (skin)

Hi All,

Here is a new version of PSPVBA the GameBoy Advance Emulator for PSP.

First i would like to thanks Shadow for his beautiful icons and background image .

What's new in version 1.0.7 :

- Sound improvement
- Switch off the sound during screenshot save
- The percent of battery left is now displayed in the emulator window
- Add a watchdog to automatically return to the emulator menu when the battery is very low (< 5%)
- Add nice icons and background designed by Shadow !
- Modify the UI to be able to use custom background images (transparency)
- Sleep mode is now working (but only when you're in the emulator window)

How to use it ?

Have a look to the README.txt file !

Two binary versions (for 2.x and 1.5 FW) and sources are included in the zip archive.

This package is under GPL Copyright, read COPYING file for more information about it.

These are amazing updates!

I have a suggestion though, you need to add gamma correction, so that the games that were brightened (to make up for the original GBA's lack of a backlight) could be darkened back down.

the screenshot you used here is a good example of a washed out game.

Another great update! I can notice an improvement in the sound. Some games are running over 100% at 10FPS now! You may want to add an option of some sort to limit the speed to 100% soon. The need for something like this says a great deal about the progress you've made (particularly in such a short time and while updating several other emulators). Thank you and keep up the good work!

I noticed you said pspvba v1.7 does not work on 2.01+

It works fine on the 2.6 psp.

You have done some fantastic work on all your emulators you have released.

Is it possible there could be an emulator release for the DRAGON computers.

Keep up the good work
